Should the Purchaser be the defaulting party, the Selling Firm shall have the right to apply all monies held in escrow toward the brokerage fee and other damages due under this Contract. Purchaser further agrees, should Purchaser be the defaulting party, in addition to standard Contract remedies and damages, to be responsible for all reasonable expenses incurred by Seller in preserving the property and attempting to resell it, including but not limited to interest paid on loans in existence on the property at the time of breach to the time of resale, loss of use of equity and the difference the net sales proceeds of this Contract and the final net sales proceeds of the resale.

The settlement agent's roll in closing this transaction involves the coordination of numerous administrative and clerical functions relating to the collection of documents and the collection and disbursement of funds required to carry out the terms of the contract between the parties. If part of the purchase price is financed, the lender for the purchaser will instruct the settlement agent as to the signing and recording of loan documents and the disbursement of loan proceeds. No settlement agent can provide legal advice to any party to the transaction except a settlement agent who is engaged in the private practice of law in the State and who has been retained or engaged by a party to the transaction for the purpose of providing legal services to that party.
